

September 2010

Dear Parents,

Thank you for a splendid beginning of the year! We are blessed with families that value and live Conchita's philosophy and that feeling of support and love reflects on the lives of our children.

Happiness comes from within and is the result of living in the now, being grateful for the blessings we have, and being an active participant in building a better world. That is exactly what the CEA family does day in and day out.

Every morning we start our day with a prayer and recognition of our blessings. We then go on to acquire the necessary skills to be lifelong learners, the necessary values and principles to develop strong characters, the social skills to successfully communicate with others, and the creativity that will know no limitations.

The administration and faculty are constantly researching the best methods and technologies available to enhance our students' education. We remain true to our philosophy of technology being a tool at the service of man. Our priority continues to be the development of intelligent, sensitive and creative human beings with the ability to lead or to know how to wisely choose whom to follow.

We invite you to be an active participant of the CEA world and accompany us on the 2010-2011 school year journey.

Many blessings,
